

CIRIA Membership

Summary of the main conditions

The following points have been summarised from the Memorandum and Articles of Association and are intended only as a brief guide, not as a substitute for the rules of membership. A full copy of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Construction Industry Research and Information Association is available on request.

Member representatives

All member organisations appoint an individual to act as their Nominated Representative. This is the person who acts as the member's representative to the Association and in whom the voting rights at General Meetings vest.

All member organisations also have the right to appoint a Council Representative. This person is authorised to attend and vote at Council meetings and represent their organisation thereat. They may be the same person as the Nominated Representative.

Minimum period of membership

The minimum period of membership is one year.

Resignation

Member organisations must give six months notice of resignation. The named subscription is payable during this period, and all named benefits apply.

Council

The Council is the senior representative body of member organisations and meets regularly to advise and consult with the Association and its Executive Board. Members have the right to be represented on Council through their Council Representative.

Voting at General Meetings

The Nominated Representative of member organisations or their proxy may vote.

Liability of Members

On winding-up of the Association, the liability of Members is limited to £10.

Notification of changes to organisation

The Nominated Representative should inform CIRIA of any changes to its organisation, particularly in terms of number of staff or turnover that will have an effect on its subscription band.
